Rally Monza didn’t figure on the original 2020 WRC calendar but the pandemic forced the promoter and the FIA to seek alternatives to the fixtures that had to be cancelled. The part of the rally that takes place at the circuit itself will be a big challenge in terms of tyre management as the track surface’s unique characteristics clearly differ from those of ordinary roads. The weather at this time of year could bring some surprises, so this has the makings of being a very interesting event that will put tyre strategy at the centre of conversations once more as we wrap up the season.
